Weber River Improvement Project

done as part of the Fishery Restoration Program. The river will be restored to a natural condition, allowing fish to swim upstream, improving water quality and enhancing wildlife habitat.

In 2000, we completed planning and design of the project, which included:

- Development of an Environmental Impact Statement
- Construction of a new dam to control water levels
- Restoration of riparian vegetation along the riverbank

The project is expected to be completed by 2022, with ongoing monitoring and management to ensure long-term success.
